

Going Green

Inside the Law Firm Eco-Revolution

Sustainability isn't just a buzz word. For law firms it's becoming a big part of their business. From carbon trading and climate change practices, to green office space and the idea of paper-free workplaces, Legal Times will explore the sudden surge of environmental awareness among legal professionals. This special issue will include a sampler of the changes made by D.C. law firms that are "going green."

Coming March 31

Space Reservation Deadline: March 25
