William J. Blechman is a partner with Kenny Nachwalter, P.A. His practice concentrates on antitrust law, with an emphasis on the specific client interests of large public and private companies, entrepreneurial individuals and public agencies rather than class actions or mass actions. His antitrust work typically involves global cartels or dominant firm conduct. Besides his conventional antitrust practice, Mr. Blechman has served as a special deputy attorney general prosecuting antitrust cases in some states. While antitrust work dominates his practice, Mr. Blechman also represents plaintiffs and defendants in other complex commercial litigation, and he has a niche representing whistleblowers and firms in False Claims Act cases.

Prior to joining Kenny Nachwalter, Mr. Blechman clerked for the Honorable Jose A. Gonzalez, Jr., United States District Judge for the Southern District of Florida.

Mr. Blechman earned his B.A. (1979), with honors, from Harvard College, and his J.D. (1983), with honors, from the University of Miami School of Law, where he served as an editor on the Law Review. He is admitted to the bars of the States of Florida, Tennessee and the District of Columbia. He is also admitted to practice in the United States Supreme Court, and several U.S. Courts of Appeal and District Courts around the country.

Mr. Blechman has written and lectured on a variety of legal topics, including antitrust and pretrial practice and procedure.
